Japanese business leaders tour tri-county facilities

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Hancock County Port and Harbor officials escorted a group of five Japanese business representatives on a tour of industrial facilities and the National Space Technology Laboratories in the county on Wednesday.

It was part of a three-day coastal tour given by the Mississippi Gulf Coast Economic Commissions as a result of a tri-county mission to New York City in February, where members visited representatives of targeted Japanese companies and the Japanese Consulate in February of 1987.

Hancock Port and Harbor officials conducting the tour included Buz Olsen, executive director; Ronald Artigues, president; David McDonald, treasurer; Nancy Gex, commission member; and Tom Adams, senior industrial developer of the Mississippi Department of Economic Development.

Stennis International Airport, Stennis Airpark, Port Blenville,

Diamondhead Resort and NSTL were the primary places of interest for the Japanese businessmen in Hancock County.

The Japanese businessmen included Mikihisa Komoto, president of Mitsui Zosen (USA), Inc.; Dr. Teizo Okawa, technical advisor of Nichimen American, Inc.; Takayuki Tanaka, economist for The Long-Term Cr. Bank of Japan, Ltd.; Takao Hayashida, vice-president and secretary of Toshiba America, Inc.; and Yukihiko Kimura, corporate secretary of Toda American, Inc. Mrs. Takao Hayashida accompanied the group.

Areas of business interests visited in the Mississippi Gulf Coast counties included available buildings, industrial parks, water, port and harbor facilities, transportation access, federal installations, educational and recreational facilities, and quality of life aspects of the area.

The Mississippi Economic Development was also involved in the Japanese mission and arranged transportation. Jerry McDonald, executive director; and Tom Adams, senior industrial developer, also escorted the representatives.

Tours and business briefings were conducted by directors and commission members of the tri-county development commissions.

The Japanese group arrived Monday evening at Gulfport-Biloxi Regional Airport and toured Jackson County Tuesday morning and Harrison County in the afternoon.

Artigues said, "Our specialized labor force availability is paying the way to many diverse manufacturing and industrial groups and this tri-county effort helps deliver that message."

Bill Allison, president of the Harrison County Development Commission, stated, "This effort recognized the commitment of the development agencies on the Mississippi Gulf Coast to working together and enhancing our regional development efforts."

President Douglas Fontaine of the Jackson County Economic Development District, summed it up by stating, "The Japanese mission seemed particularly impressed with the many facilities available in the tri-counties and our collective efforts gave us the ability to show them prime sites throughout the three-county area."

Wastewater district charges cause Bay St. Louis bankruptcy concern

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Bay St. Louis City Council conducted probably its shortest and least eventful meeting ever Tuesday.

The only action taken in the meeting was to adjourn.

However immediately following this the council began a workshop session on the proposed utility rate increases.

In this session the council questioned city administrators about what would happen if it decided not to increase utility rates.

Mayor Victor J. Frankiewicz said the city could be facing bankruptcy if there is no raise in utility rates.

"We are losing money every month in the utility department and if there is no raise in utility rates the city would be in a position of running out of money," he said.

The city would not be able to pay staff and soon would not be able to deliver any city services, Frankiewicz said.

"If you think people are upset about facing higher utility rates, imagine what it would be like if we could not offer them any city services," he continued.

"The bottom line is that we have a bunch of new money that we have to come up with," he said.

The "bunch of new money" totals over $2 million dollars and more than half this amount is Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District costs.

"Payments to the regional wastewater authority have exceeded the revenues collected by $268,000," Frankiewicz said.

He told the council, the city was required by law to pay whatever the wastewater district billed the city.

"As one of the three representatives on the wastewater authority, I have tried consistently to hold down costs by opposing low quality engineering, needless construction of costly facilities and operational frills unnecessary for a sewer district," he said.

"Bay St. Louis is paying the majority of the costs in the wastewater district now but has only one voice in three on the board," Frankiewicz said.

He also said the only thing that can change the representation on the board is a two-thirds vote by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors.

"Bay St. Louis residents are represented on board of supervisors by three members and I think it is time for city residents to voice their concern to their representatives," Frankiewicz said.

The council also discussed the need to trim the city's budget wherever possible to come up with extra funding.

Frankiewicz said the budget was fairly tight but some trimming could possibly be done.

"I just think that if there is any place we can cut back, we need to do it," Councilman Lisa Coward said.

"Anything we cut out here will be less money that has to come out of the city residents' pockets," she continued.

The council did stress although it was considering budget cuts, employee salaries were not being considered for cuts.

"I am opposed to any pay cut for city employees in any way, shape or form," Councilman John Wilkerson said.

"I have seen a list of employee salaries and most people in this city would not work for these salaries," he said.

The council was expected to meet Wednesday night with area residents in a public hearing on the proposed utility rate increases.

More than 40 qualify so far

By DENA BISNETTE

More than 40 candidates have qualified for this year's county election and seven have qualified for district races.

The deadline for qualifying is 5 p.m. June 5. The Democratic primary will be Aug. 4, with a runoff scheduled for Aug. 25. The general election will follow in November.

According to Hancock County Election Commission Secretary Charles Gottschalk, those in district races who officially remained unopposed late Wednesday included incumbent District Attorney Cono Caranna, incumbent District 46 State Senator Gene Taylor, District 106 state representative candidate Sherman J. Gaspard and District 122 state representative candidate J.P. Comptea.

District candidates have to qualify with the Office of the Secretary of State. Glen Cannon has announced his intention to run against Caranna but the Hancock County Circuit Clerk's Office has not yet received notification from the secretary of state's office, Circuit clerk John D. Rutherford Jr. said.

He said the candidates included on the district list notified his office themselves. The list from the Secretary of State's office is not provided to individual counties until after June 5.

Also included in the district races is an election for State Senate in District 47 which includes two Republicans, Mark Fornby and Marc A. Chetta, and one Democrat, Sherry S. Morris.

In local races, candidates qualify with the circuit clerk's office.

Three candidates including incumbent Ronald "Ronnie" Peterson are running for sheriff. His opponents include Bay St. Louis Police Chief Ray Murphy and Hancock County Truant Officer Frank McNeil.

Chancery Clerk E. Michael Necase and Tax Assessor and Collector Edward "Eddie" D. Murtagh Jr. are both unopposed.

Rutherford is not running again and three candidates, all Democrats, are vying for the Circuit Clerk's office. They include Chief Deputy Circuit clerk Pamela L. Metzler, Bay zoning official Madeline Prendergast and Larry Peterson.

Incumbent Hancock County Superintendent of Education Terrell "Terry" Randolph is opposed by W.J. Cameron, principal of Bay Junior High.

Gail R. Nami, a Republican, will run against incumbent Coroner Harold J. Stiglet Sr.

In the election for Justice Court judge, East District, incumbent Joseph Dobson will face Republican Buford L. Ladner. A third candidate, Donovan "Carl" Cuevas, has withdrawn.

In the West District, judge candidates include one Republican, J.D. "Tony" Miller, and four Democrats, Lee B. Klein, Darrell W. Ladner, Richard "Bob" Tarver and Merle "Arleene" Sanchez.

Two candidates for constable, Paul Pierce in the East District and Donald J. Gambill in the West District, have withdrawn.

Kire C. "Junior" Mitchell will face Paul Ladner in the East District. The West District includes six candidates, Oliver W. Lee Sr., Nathan Hoda Jr., Marion Necase, Gary Lynn Bennett, Johnny Tzanos and Richard Joseph Fayard Sr.

Four out of five incumbent supervisors are opposed and all five are running again.

Bay schools to provide summer meals program

By DENA BISNETTE

The Bay St. Louis School District Board has given formal approval to a summer meals program for children and handicapped people.

The board voted Tuesday afternoon to approve the program, which had been discussed at prior meetings and set to begin on June 8. Children from ages one year to 18 years may participate, according to Linda Gavagnie of the school district's central office.

People older than 18 who have been determined by a state or local educational agency to be physically or mentally handicapped may participate if they are currently enrolled in a public or private nonprofit education program.

Anyone who needs information on eligibility should contact Gavagnie at 467-9242.

Gavagnie said the meals are being provided with state funds and fall under the same nutrition guidelines as the National School Lunch and School Breakfast programs.

Doris Barnes, a Bay School District Food Service employee, will supervise preparation and serving of the meals.

Current plans call for 100 meals at breakfast and 150 meals at lunch to be provided at Waveland Elementary School and St. Rose Fifth Grade Center.

Breakfast hours scheduled at both locations will be 8:30 a.m. until 9:30 a.m. Lunches are scheduled to be served from noon until 1:30 p.m.

The number of meals may be expanded later if the number of participants is larger than anticipated.

The program provides no transportation.

Bay resident struck, killed by train

Christopher N. Proulx, 22, of 213 Union St., Bay St. Louis, was killed early Sunday morning after being struck by a train near the Bay St. Louis railroad bridge.

Proulx was hit at approximately 2:30 a.m. by a westbound Seaboard System freight train near the intersection of the railroad and Beach Boulevard.

Bay Police Department Detective David Murtagh said Proulx was found between the railroad tracks and had suffered extensive head injuries.

The victim was taken to Hancock Medical Center and then transferred to Memorial Hospital in Gulfport where he was pronounced dead.

Harrison County Medical Examiner Steve Delahouse said the cause of death was head trauma.

According to Murtagh, the train was traveling about 30 miles per hour and no charges have been filed against the train engineer.

Police were notified of the accident by the Mobile, Ala. Seaboard office and the train's engineer met with police officers at the scene, Murtagh said.

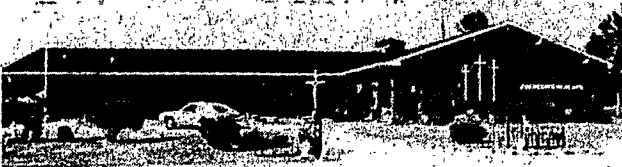

He also said the engineer reported seeing Proulx before the accident but was unable to stop the train in time.

Harrison sheriff discusses drug force

Work of the Blue Lightning Strike Force was the principal topic discussed by Harrison County Sheriff Larkin Smith Saturday when he was guest speaker at a luncheon meeting of the Friendship Oak Chapter National Society Daughters of the American Revolution.

The group met at the Long Beach Ramada Inn.

Drug smuggling, according to statistics quoted, is one of the main concerns of these officers.

"You are going to see some strong activities," the sheriff said.

He mentioned "improved technology and sophisticated methods" now used to apprehend offenders. "This is a grand day for law enforcement," Smith stated. He showed a film illustrating how the Blue Lightning Strike Force operates.

During a question and answer period Smith said all "controlled substances seized" are sent to a laboratory to determine the contents and are then destroyed. Confiscated guns, cars, boats, planes, money and jewelry are either used by the police department, or they are sold at auction.

By making use of the cars, Smith said, taxpayers are saved a substantial amount of money.

The strike force will occupy the old Biloxi-Gulfport Air Terminal by June 1. Plans are on the drawing board to enlarge this facility.

People should realize there is now a greater need to protect their lives, homes and properties against violence and thefts, the sheriff said, and added doors should be locked as well as car doors and windows.

He said security surveys, by request, are available to inspect homes and make suggestions on ways to add protection. "There is no law in Mississippi to prevent a person from carrying a gun in his automobile," Smith said, and suggested the weapon should not be prominently exposed. "Throw a towel or a magazine over it," he suggested.

Ladies should familiarize themselves with the hand guns they plan to carry, the sheriff said, and added the Harrison County Sheriff's Department offers a training course in which cleaning and firing of weapons is taught.

The cost of the course is about $16. The student furnished both weapon and ammunition. Time required is five nights.

Summertime - and the living and the cookin's easy, or should be, don't you think? The cooking is easy for the most part at my house these warm days, I assure you.

And, since, especially if you've a family around the house, you can't exist indefinitely on hamburgers and salads and such, the canny cook turns to versatile dishes which can fill more than one role on the mealtime stage.

Then, she cooks up a larger than usual batch, and relaxes, as I do! Since I am happily and irrevocably addicted to fresh mushrooms and even more so to fresh parsley (I battle the fat brown rabbit for the parsley in my garden bed constantly) one of my favorites is a mushroom and parsley mixture enlivened with fresh chopped garlic - no powder or such here, please!

It's delicious, hot, as a "side dish" at dinner, warm or cold as an appetizer, tasty as a sauce for pasta and so on - I'll supply the recipe, you supply your own variations and additions on the theme. Here's:

Mushroom and Parsley Business
1 lb. fresh mushrooms
1 Tsp. or more, to your taste, finely chopped garlic
½ Cup olive oil

Freshly ground pepper, if possible, just a few twists of the mill
4 Tbsp. finely chopped parsley

Wipe the mushrooms clean with a damp cloth, and, if they're in need, rinse quickly and dry rapidly - you must never really wash mushrooms, as you know, they'll be watery. Slice lengthwise, after removing the stems.

Then, in a heavy skillet, saute the garlic in the olive oil over medium to almost high heat just until it turns a light color, but short of browning. Add the mushrooms, turning the heat high, then, as the mushrooms take up the oil, turn the fire low, add the pepper, salt if you wish, shaking the pan, to toss the mushrooms and stir them about.

As the juices come to the surface, turn the fire up again and cook for just a few minutes more, stirring from time to time - but, take care not to overcook the mushrooms. Taste, to see if you want more pepper or salt, then add the chopped parsley.

Serve right away, if it's a side dish for chicken or steak or whatever. If you've cooked it ahead, let it cool a bit and serve as an appetizer with crisp toast pieces or crackers. Or, serve hot over thin pasta, or over meat or chicken. (Six servings, but I usually double the recipe.)

(P.S. If you find a bit of shrimp or ham or such as you forage in the fridge, add it to the sauce for pasta; and, if the sauce seems skimpy - well, the cooks of old Italy are amazed at the quantities of meat and tomato sauce Americans lavish on their pasta - they prefer not to drown the pasta in the sauce!)

Thunderstorms have been frequent in our area in recent weeks.

I cannot recall as many thunderstorms in such a short period of time.

Weather played havoc on many plans for the long Memorial Day weekend.

Many cookouts were dampened and some even cancelled.

Even with the bad weather, Bay St. Louis and Waveland American Legion posts conducted their annual Memorial Day Services.

Turnouts for both ceremonies were very good considering the thunderstorms in the area.

Weather is something one can always comment about, either it is too wet, dry, hot or cold.

And just think, all we can do is talk about the weather, because we cannot control it.

The tornado in Saragosa, Texas over the weekend has to be among one of the worst in recent years.

Considering over half of the residents of a community being killed or injured, and all structures destroyed or with heavy damage, it had to be a very strong tornado which struck Saragosa.

In viewing some of the television scenes, it appeared the community was lucky there were not more deaths.

The Texas town will long remember Memorial Day weekend for many years to come. We know the people of the Mississippi Gulf Coast still remembers Hurricane Camille and it was almost 18 years ago.

It is hard to find shelter when a tornado strikes an area.

We all know the sad feelings the survivors of Saragosa must be going through in the aftermath of the killer tornado.

We have hurricanes in our area, yet we do have some time for preparations, the people of Saragosa had no time for preparation.

Congratulations are in order for all high school graduates of our area.

We wish them all luck in the days ahead and hope they will realize now the importance of continuing their educations.

A person cannot receive enough education in the world we live in today.

There are many jobs a person without a college degree today is not even considered for and there will probably be more in the years to come.

We urge all high school graduates to continue their education if anyway possible.

The People's Business

Weekly Editorial
From Mississippi Economic Council

Mississippians will be well advised to keep an eye on the Congress over the next few months.

There is a new move under way to enact a series of federal proposals which could result in effective dismantling of the state's economic development efforts. Even more serious, the series of proposals could result in the effective destruction of the state's small business community.

At least a dozen anti-business proposals have been introduced, or are scheduled to be introduced, in this 100th Congress.

Among the major proposals are these:

—Business would be required to advise labor unions of plans to close or relocate plants at least 90 days before such closings or relocations, and the closing or relocation would be subject to negotiation with the union. Business, in effect, would have the right to manage its affairs removed under this proposal.

—Business would be required to provide health care insurance for employees. True, most businesses provide health care benefits for employees now, but that choice would be taken away from business. And, some firms simply can't afford that extra expense and remain in business.

—Business would be required to provide extensive leaves for births, for childcare, or for care for dependent parents. In the beginning such leaves, as much as 18 weeks, would be without pay. But the legislative proposal includes a provision for study as to how the leaves could be paid.

—The minimum wage rate would be increased from the present $3.35 per hour to $4.50 per hour, with provisions made for automatic increases after the $4.50 level is reached.

There are other equally as dangerous proposals before the U.S. Senate and the House of Representatives.

Mississippi's congressional delegation should be hearing from the home folks on these issues. The free enterprise system is being threatened.

News from Governor Bill Allain

UNEMPLOYMENT RATE DROPS TO TWO-YEAR LOW

Mississippi's unemployment rate for April dropped to 9.3 percent, a more than two-year low figure for our state, indicating that we are making progress in locating new jobs.

The 9.3 percent unemployment figure is the lowest our unemployment rate has been since September and October of 1985. In addition, the April figure is nearly 2 percent lower than the March figure.

The Mississippi Employment Security Commission said the decrease in unemployment is due to improvement in both manufacturing and nonmanufacturing industries.

Employment during April increased by 11,300 individuals over March. When compared to one year ago, the net gain in employment is 16,100.

Manufacturing establishments provided 222,800 jobs. Nonmanufacturing businesses provided 638,100 jobs in April. Manufacturing jobs increased by 2,200 from March and 1,600 from one year ago. Non-manufacturing jobs increased 12,400 from one year ago with a monthly increase of 3,700.

The lowest unemployment rates were listed in DeSoto County, 5 percent; Itawamba, 5.5 percent; Rankin, 5.6 percent; Lafayette, 5.9 percent; and Oktibbeha, 6 percent. The highest unemployment rates were in Sharkey, 26.1 percent; Jefferson, 22.4 percent; Issaquena, 18.2 percent; Tishomingo, 18.1 percent; and George, 18 percent.

These figures indicate an improvement in the job outlook in Mississippi. In addition, we are seeing an increase in income tax collections, which also indicates that more people are working today and contributing to the state's tax base.

With the aggressive approach of state and local economic development agencies, these trends are expected to continue. As more people are working, the state will do an even better job of meeting our budget and providing the necessary services for our people.

STARK LESSONS

The deaths of 37 young Americans aboard the frigate USS Stark in the Persian Gulf has renewed the debate over the role of our military and the United States' strategic policy in the Middle East.

There are a lot of questions to be answered about what happened: Why did an Iraqi plane fire on a friendly American ship? Why didn't the Stark knock the plane out of the air before it fired two missiles? Why weren't the missiles stopped before they could hit the frigate?

Some question why the Stark was in the Persian Gulf to begin with. American ships have patrolled the Gulf since 1949. That region is a crossroads for three continents and the starting place for the oil that is the life blood of much of the world economy. Russian ships patrol this sea lane alongside American.

And, it is a region critical to avoiding larger conflict in the Middle East. The United States' role there is essential to building the conditions for peace in that troubled, dangerous part of the world. As President Reagan has emphasized, it is this objective that has guided us as we have sought to end the brutal war between Iran and Iraq.

Our nation's security is at stake here and would be threatened were a hostile power ever to dominate this strategic region and its resources.

But if we are going to be in those dangerous areas, we have got to be prepared to take military actions to defend our people so that incidents like the tragic loss of 37 lives will not occur.

The United States has got to be more aggressive when we put our military men and women - whether sailors or marines - in harm's way. They must be prepared to fire first when they are threatened, and then we will answer the questions later.

I am tired of there being situations like the bombing of our marine barracks at Lebanon and the firing on the Stark where afterwards, others simply apologize or we start analyzing the situation for answers.

We have worked hard to strengthen our military and give our soldiers the resources they need to protect the freedoms all of us enjoy. When our soldiers are threatened with aggression, there should be no question as to their right to use those resources to defend themselves.

JACKSON—A luncheon in Washington several weeks ago honoring Eph Cresswell, Sen. John Stennis' longtime administrative assistant, may have had some bearing on the big unanswered political question in Mississippi: Is John Stennis really running again?

The asserted purpose of the luncheon according to letters Sen. Stennis sent out to those of us who were invited was simply to surprise Cresswell on his 61st birthday and mark his 30 years of service, making him the longest-standing Senate administrative assistant in memory.

Cresswell is a lot like foxy old John Stennis - close-mouthed and tight-fisted with information about himself or his plans. Nothing was said to indicate it was a retirement party for Cresswell and Eph didn't let on that he had any such plans.

But word has been filtering back to Mississippi that Cresswell is rather keen about leaving Washington life behind and moving back to Jackson, getting out of politics, and into banking.

The only piece left to fit into the puzzle, some friends say, is when Cresswell will execute his plan.

There is now some speculation that Cresswell has already given Stennis his timetable, which calls for the veteran AA to depart Washington before the end of the year.

In essence, so the speculation goes, Cresswell has served notice on Big John that "if you're running again next year, you're going to have to run without me."

Of course, no one in the political world is indispensable. But those who know how valuable Cresswell is to Stennis believe the loss of Cresswell would have such an impact on Stennis' ability to function within the constraints of his age, physical disability and heavy duties that it would greatly influence his plans of running in 1988.

Close observers say that Cresswell already had his hands full with looking after the hobbled, octogenarian son and the operation of the Senate office before Stennis inherited the President Pro Tempore and Appropriations chairmanship when the Democrats again took over the Senate this year.

Recently Stennis told an interviewer that he was "not overworked." Some suggested that Stennis may not be overworked, but Cresswell certainly is.

For all intents and purposes, Cresswell is now running the Senate office while Stennis spends most of his time with his Appropriations Committee job and his post as Senate Pro Tem.

Recently a colleague of Stennis who was in company of a group of Mississippi political figures expressed concern that the aging Stennis is considering running for re-election next year at age 87. This senator said that Stennis now has a very limited span of stamina and alertness in functioning as Appropriations chairman.

But conventional political wisdom in Mississippi is that Stennis is planning to run. At least he has convinced one aspirant for his job, former Cong. David Bowen, that he is. Bowen had come down to Mississippi State University to teach the past two years, waiting for the Senate seat to come open.

A couple of weeks ago, Bowen finished his teaching tenure, and moved to Washington, D.C. to become a consultant, giving up hope Stennis would step down.

Some close watchers of the situation from the Democratic side are worried that something could happen to remove Stennis before the end of this year, requiring a special election to name a replacement. This scenario, say these Democrats, would play into the hands of U.S. Rep. Trent Lott, allowing the conservative Republican to run for the Senate seat without having to give up his House seat.

Most Democrats don't believe Lott will ever run for the Senate post if he has to risk losing his "safe" seat in the Mississippi 5th or coastal district.

The time for Stennis to make public his plans for next year is growing shorter, since under the greatly advanced election schedule in 1988, keyed to the "Super Tuesday" presidential primary on March 8, it will be necessary for Senate and House candidates to qualify next Jan. 8. That deadline is some four months earlier than usual.

It's almost certain that no "name" Democrat would run against Stennis. What Democrats fear, of course, is that if Stennis were taken out of the picture after the qualifying deadline they may be left with some "no-name" Democrat to face a certain major GOP foe.

At least one of Stennis' oldest friends in Mississippi, former U.S. Marshal Army Rhoden of Columbia, does not share the belief that Stennis is almost sure to run next year.

Rhoden says "keep an eye on what Eph Cresswell does, that's the tipoff."

Matters of Health

Cerebral aneurysm

Q: My father, who suffered with headaches for years, died recently of an aneurysm. Could his headaches have been caused by the aneurysm?

A: An aneurysm is a weak spot in the wall of an artery which causes it to balloon out. It can form anywhere, but it's most often found at the base of the brain in the area called the Circle of Willis - named for Thomas Willis, a neuroanatomist.

Severe headache often accompanies the rupture of an aneurysm, but no evidence shows that aneurysms are any more common among migraine or other headache patients than among the general population.

Aneurysms are common and often show no symptoms. As many as five percent of the people on whom autopsies are performed are found to have an aneurysm - although the aneurysm isn't necessarily the cause of death.

A sudden rupture of the aneurysm produces a stroke with bleeding in and around the brain. This type of stroke carries a substantial mortality rate. About 50 percent of these patients die within the first three months.

By comparison, most strokes - with the exception of a massive, hypertensive cerebral hemorrhage - have a mortality rate of about 15-20 percent.

Approximately 60 percent of all aneurysms occur in women. Other types of strokes, however, affect men and women in equal proportion.

Aneurysms are rarely present in infants. The incidence of aneurysm increases with age. Yet, aneurysms often affect patients at a younger age than do other strokes. A number of people in their 20s and 30s experience ruptured aneurysms.

Aneurysms don't tend to be hereditary. Congenital polycystic kidney disease and constriction of the aorta are two conditions which are associated with an increased incidence of cerebral aneurysm.

A rare opportunity to study aneurysms before rupture occurs has been provided in data collected in the Boston University/Framingham Heart Study. The health records of 5200 people over a 26-year period identified 35 people with ruptured aneurysms. The physicians' study revealed that in the afflicted group, hypertension and cigarette smoking were associated factors.

Some patients who survive the initial rupture of an aneurysm will have another hemorrhage within several weeks. For reasons that aren't fully understood, the vessels near the artery may develop spasm and cause a different kind of stroke. After three to four weeks, the rupture site heals enough to reduce the risk of rebleeding.

Of patients with aneurysms, 15-20 percent will have multiple lesions. The smaller their aneurysm is, the less the risk of rupture. An arteriogram - an x-ray test that images the blood vessels supplying the brain - may be used to locate an aneurysm and determine its size.

Surgical techniques used to treat aneurysms have made notable progress within the last 15 years. Operating with the use of the microscope and microsurgery has made it possible for surgeons to clip the aneurysm without undue damage to the brain.

This "Matter of Health" was prepared in cooperation with the neurologists on staff at The University Hospital - the teaching hospital for the University of Mississippi Medical Center and a referral center for all of Mississippi.

The money will be returned to the George County Treasury by Attorney General Ed Pittman.

Cooley and the bonding company, United States Fidelity and Guaranty

CONCERT SET—Kool & The Gang will perform Friday at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum. Members of the group are, from left, Khalis Bayyan (Ronald Bell), Charles Smith, Robert "Kool" Bell, George Brown, Dennis "Dee Dee" Thomas, Curtis Williams, James "J.T." Taylor. The evening's entertainment will begin at 8 p.m. Opening acts for the concert include The System, Klymaxx and Club Nouveau.

Kool & The Gang to perform Friday at Coast Coliseum

Casey Kasem, host of American Top 40, recently startled some of his listeners. Who was the top group of the 80's, he asked: Not The Police, he explained, or The Jacksons, Wham! or Dire Straits.

No, the top group of this decade, according to Kasem, is - Kool & The Gang.

Since January, 1980, Kool & The Gang have had more Top 40 singles than Lionel Richie, Prince, Michael Jackson or The Police! In fact, Kool & The Gang have had nearly twice as many hits in this decade as any of these talented competitors - 14, to be exact.

And Mississippi Gulf Coast residents will have the opportunity to see them perform Friday at the Coast Coliseum. Opening acts will be The System, Klymaxx and Club Nouveau.

Not only have Kool & The Gang had 14 hits but three of their singles have turned into standards.

First, in 1980, "Celebration" became what the Milwaukee Sentinel called "one of the most played and recognizable songs of our time." "Celebration" was played when the hostages returned from Iran, whenever the Baltimore Orioles won a game in Memorial Stadium, and as the theme song of the Oakland A's.

Then "Joanna" was named by BMI as the most-played pop song of 1984. And "Cherish" was named the top adult/contemporary song of 1985 by Radio and Records, above songs by Wham!, Phil Collins, Stevie Wonder, Madonna, Billy Joel and Tina Turner.

"Cherish" was one of four major hits for Kool & The Gang in 1985. In fact, Kool & The Gang were the only group of '85 to have that many hits from just one LP. The result was that their album "Emergency" went double platinum and was named the best-selling LP by a black group for the year.

The discovery of Kool & The Gang has been going on in more than just America. In the summer of 1984, Kool & The Gang took time off from recording "Emergency" to fly to London for an appearance as Elton John's special guests at Wembley Stadium on a concert that included Big Country, Wang Chung and Nik Kershaw - all of whom appeared below Kool & The Gang on the bill.

The American act won three standing ovations from the crowd of 80,000. When Bob Geldof was putting together his Band Aid Ethiopian relief record in England with stars ranging from Sting to Duran Duran and Wham!, the only American act he included on the single was Kool & The Gang. And Kool & The Gang's most recent two albums have lodged five singles in the upper reaches of the British charts.

While heavy metal bands succeed with a message of rebellion, Kool & The Gang have triumphed with positivity. Their messages: work constructively toward long term goals, cherish close relationships, value the spiritual, then celebrate. That's why their new album, "Forever," is an album of affirmation.

Robert "Kool" Bell explains the feeling behind some of "Forever's" key songs. "Victory," he says, "is about success in life. It starts out sounding like it's about a game, but it's about much more. When you go out to accomplish things, it's a victory, whether you're going after a diploma or trying to become a champion at baseball and football."

"Peacemaker" says we need a hero for the world, someone who'll bring peace. But that hero isn't just one person, it can be our generation. We can be the generation that brings peace about. "God's Country" is a song that comes from the idea that we've been blessed with one more tomorrow to do the things we need to do in life. God's country can be anywhere in the whole world. Your home is God's country. It just takes you making the effort to keep it something special," Bell said.

Kool and his brother Ronald started taking empty paint cans from a factory near their home to a hill "where the sound was great," pretending the cans were bongos, and churning out afro-jazz beats. By 1984 Kool (he was 14 at the time), Ronald and most of the future members of Kool & The Gang were hanging out across the Hudson River in New York's Greenwich Village at the legendary Cafe Wha.

Explains Kool, "Every Sunday they had a hootenanny with Richie Havens (the great '60s guitarist), some country and western people and an afro ensemble playing percussion. The afro group was us. It was really exciting. Bill Cosby, Richard Pryor and Jimi Hendrix were all down there in the Village during that period. I remember getting paid a bowl of potato chips and a sandwich for an afternoon's work."

It was vocalist James (J.T.) Taylor who delivered the group's new, softer sound - first heard on the "Ladies' Night" album.

"We needed that male voice up front," says Kool. "That's the only thing we were missing. We were writing songs that were pop oriented, but we didn't have the right voice to sing them. James was the voice."

Kool & The Gang moved into the fusion of rock, pop and R&B with "Emergency," which became their first double-platinum album, with four Top 40 singles: "Misled," "Fresh," "Cherish," "Emergency."

Couple receives maximum for child abuse

Patrick Green, 30, and Della Sylvester, 27, both of 123 Melody Lane, Bay St. Louis received maximum sentences in city court last week on misdemeanor charges of abusing the woman's 5-year-old son.

The pair is also facing felony charges for alleged abuse of Sylvester's 14-month-old child.

City Judge John C. Chevis Jr. sentenced Green and Sylvester each to one year in the county jail and a $1,000 fine after the couple pleaded no contest to the misdemeanor charges.

The maximum sentence was recommended by city prosecutor Henry J. Cook III.

Appeal bonds were set at $500. Following this hearing, Cook filed felony abuse charges and Chevis issued warrants for their arrests.

Circuit Judge James Thomas set bonds of $20,000 for both Green and Sylvester.

The case will go to the July grand jury unless the pair requests a preliminary hearing, where Chevis would preside.

Severity of injuries determines whether child abuse charges are misdemeanors or felonies.

No details on the types of injuries or abuse has been released.

The Hancock County Department of Public Welfare has had custody of the children since April.

Green and Sylvester are being held in the Hancock County jail.

County school board members shocked at facility conditions

BY BRENDA HEATHCOCK
The Hancock County School Board found most county school buildings to be "excessively overcrowded and deteriorated" in a recent facility tour.

Board President Frank Miller said this was his first complete tour of the facilities and he was surprised to see just how bad conditions are.

"People generally think classroom trailers are nice, but the little village of trailers at Hancock is in a deplorable condition," he said. "I am sad that one of my children has had to attend schools in such a condition and hope that my other child will not have the same conditions to face when he gets to high school," Miller continued.

Board Member Barbara Dedeaux said the trailer entrances resembled an outhouse.

"Conditions are just deplorable and the facilities are not suitable for this day and time, maybe in the 40's but not now," she said.

Dedeaux also said with so many students attending school on the Hancock campus, she did not see how the students were kept in order.

Miller also commented on the restroom facilities, which "are not adequate for the number of students."

On the tour, Principal Donald Hillman pointed out a bathroom with only four stalls which served several hundred students.

Both Miller and Dedeaux commented on the "general" good conditions at Charles B. Murphy Elementary School in Pearllington.

There are many fewer students on this campus and you can look at the overall appearance and tell the difference, Miller said.

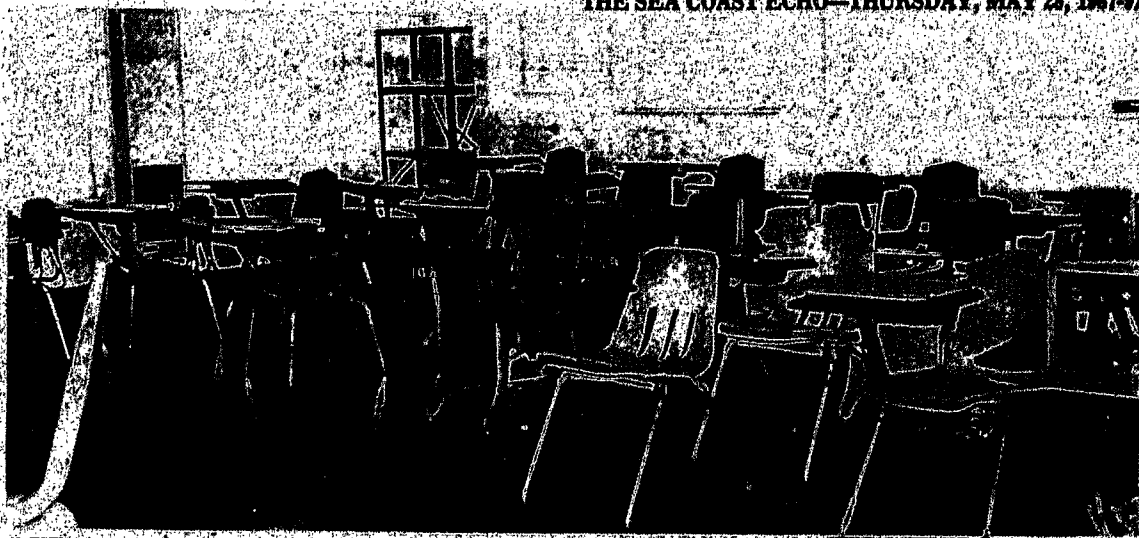

Gulfview was observed to be basically in as bad a condition as Hancock facilities, suffering extensive overcrowding.

"Even a hallway in the one-year old classroom addition is being used as a special education classroom," Dedeaux said.

Board Member Billie Faye Lyons, who was unable to tour the facilities due to a recent death in the family, said she had been to the schools several times before but was continuously surprised at the bad conditions caused in the school by overcrowding.

"There are so many children on the Hancock North Central campus, the cafeteria has to begin serving lunch at 10:30 a.m. just so there will be time for everyone to eat," Lyons said.

And it will be worse next year because we get several more students every year.

SCIENCE LABORATORY—To convert this classroom at Hancock North Central High School into a science laboratory, tables are brought in. When this make-shift setup will not do, the students must share a laboratory with another class. School Board Member Frank Miller says students can't get the quality education they deserve in a school this size with only one laboratory. (Staff photo by Brenda Heathcock)

TRAILER CEILING—Hancock North Central campus features several classroom trailers which constantly need repairs and according to Principal Donald Hillman are a "maintenance nightmare." The school must continuously repair ceilings, floors and doors on the trailers, he said. (Staff photo by Brenda Heathcock)

In this classroom Hillman pointed out there are no windows and this room is one of four that were converted from the old cafeteria. (Staff photo by Brenda Heathcock)

DETERIORATED CONDITIONS—Deterioration is evident on this threshold to a classroom trailer at Hancock North Central which has rotted. A large hole appears in the steps. (Staff photo by Brenda Heathcock)

Louis, Carol Shippey of John Phillips and Associates of Bay St. Louis, and Neil Frisbie of Coldwell Banker Neil Frisbie Incorporated in Bay St. Louis, all of whom received sterling silver julep cups representing Life Membership on the board's Million Dollar Round Table. In Coastal Gardens

Part V in a Series

By John E. Davis
Area Horticulture
Specialist, NCES

Is there anything more refreshing than waking up in the morning to the sounds of chirping birds? Is there anything more fascinating than watching a hummingbird feed, right outside your kitchen window?

These events need not be accidents, for with the right selection of flowers and other plants, you can attract birds and other wildlife to your garden.

To watch hummingbirds dart about, plant zinnia "Pulcinella," salvia "Carabinieri," and nicotiana

"Nicki."

Hummingbirds also love small insects and you naturally think of seeds. Sunflower may come to mind immediately, but coreopsis, marigolds and gloriosa daisies should be added too. Cosmos is a special favorite of the goldfinch.

Plant "Super Elfin" or "Mini" impatiens and you'll see hummingbirds as well as an array of butterflies in the garden.

To further attract birds, provide them with food year round. Shrubs will provide berries, privacy and nesting sites. And don't forget to provide them water.

Supplement your group policy for extra hospital expenses.

The Byrd Scholars were selected by a five-member committee of parents, teachers and administrators. The program was open to all high school seniors in both public and non-public schools in the state. Winners were chosen without regard to which institutions of higher learning they planned to attend.

Mississippi was awarded a total of $104,500 for the program. Initially, $90,000 was earmarked for scholarships (60) with the remainder allocated for administrative costs. These costs were kept low, however, and $7,500 of this was then used to fund an additional five scholarships.

Financial need of the applicants was not a factor. All winners will be required to show proof that they are attending college.

The scholarships were granted equally statewide, with 13 being awarded in each Congressional District. The student's home address was the determining factor as to which Congressional District he/she was placed in for the judging. Applications for the scholarship, named after the long-time legislator

Undefeated Lady Raiders take conference softball

The Coast Episcopal High School Raiders softball season came to a close May 19 with the Gulf States Conference Softball tournament in Pass Christian.

The Lady Raiders finished the season undefeated with them winning the championship game against Marrero Christian Academy of New Orleans by 27-3.

The game was never in doubt with power hitting and errorless field play.

The Raiders scored 10 runs in the first inning to start the route of an outclassed Marrero squad. Katherine Smith had two in-the-park home runs with bases loaded. Sharon Orlin also had an in-the-park home run.

The Raider defense continually shut down Marrero scoring attempts allowing only two runs in the two inning and one run in the five inning.

This was the third conference championship for the Raider girls this year, adding to their championships in basketball and track.

The Raider boys played a tough Marrero team and could not seem to generate the runs needed to stay close losing 9-2.

Base hits were few and far between as the Raiders got behind in the first inning 3-0; holding in the second inning with an excellent defensive effort, but again allowing three runs in the third inning, one in the fifth and two runs in the seventh.

The Raiders had one run from an RBI triple by Scott Covode and on and RBI from Michael Kergosien.

That was all the Raiders could do. The Raider boys ended the tournament in third place and will be returning a solid nucleus for next year, as will the girls.

In the boys championship game, New Orleans Christian routed Marrero Christian 14-3. Excellent hitting and defensive play were the keys in the New Orleans Christian win.

The tournament provided an exciting brand of slow pitch softball for fans to watch, said Raider Coach Terry Mahan. The Raiders will be participating in an expanded softball program next spring because of the enthusiasm and interest generated among the CEHS student body.

Bassin' with the pros

by Troy Fowler

Pre-summer fishing tips: Seasonal change is readily apparent to us as the geese head back north, the lilacs start to bloom, and the streetsweepers replace snowplows on the public thoroughfares. But a few fishermen are able to read the seasonal changes beneath the waters on their favorite fishing hole.

The time I heard about a fish's calendar I thought someone sold Ole a real tale! The concept of definite seasonal cycles for fish was cemented in 1973 by Al and Ron Linder (who publish the most authoritative magazine I know on the subject, the In-Fisherman) and Bill Binkelman - so it really hasn't been around a long time, but the Linders have developed such a scientific base for this calendar that ignorance of these cycles put the uniformed fisherman at a definite disadvantage.

The two most important elements to remember about any cycle are: (1) water temperature and, (2) the developing food chain and weed growth. No matter what time of year you're on the water, ask yourself questions about the water temperature, weed growth and the food chain and you can pretty well determine where the bass will and will not be.

The Linders established the following cycles: Pre-spawn, spawn, post-spawn, pre-summer, summer peak, summer, post-summer, fall turnover, cold water, and frozen water.

One of the most challenging periods of the year is pre-summer. It's the transition period from post-spawn to summer where the bass are establishing what will be their summer pattern. Just what do we mean when we say bass are establishing their patterns?

"Basically, there are three types of bass," answers Linda England, Johnson Outboards Pro Staff member. "You've got your fish that stay in shallow water - a certain percentage of bass are going to stay in shallow water year 'round. A certain percentage are going to move out to deep structure after they're done spawning, and they're going to live their life on that structure. Another small percentage of them are what we call 'roamers,' they just move constantly."

"Once the majority of bass move out of the shallow water spawning beds and recover from the spawn, then they go to whatever their normal lifestyle is. As the water temperature rises, their metabolism increases, and they get more and more active. That's what I consider the pre-summer leading into the summer situation."

England prefers to use spinnerbaits, crankbaits and a jig and frog during this cycle. Her tactics differ somewhat on the four types of fishing situations: natural lakes, rivers, creeks and man-made impoundments.

"In that natural lake I'm going to concentrate on the visible cover that's around that lake," England stresses. "I feel that the bass relates to cover and/or structure. And in natural lakes a lot of time you don't have structure as we think of it - as it's been defined by most bass fishermen. You're not going to have pre-channel edges, the old roadbeds, the river channel drop-offs - the things that we consider structure. So I'm going more for cover on natural lakes, and look for any natural points. I'm going to concentrate on any natural structure that would be present but always with an eye towards the cover."

For river fishing, Linda England suggests looking in "the areas where the bass can get back out of the current but yet still be in a striking position, where they can feed easily. The downstream side of any cuts, cuts leading back into shallow backwater areas are always good when bass are in a resting mood. They'll be on the upstream side or right up on that break when they're more active."

"I'm going to look for any type of cut or creek that goes off that river and may be a gathering place for bass. Again, I'm going to look for cover and I'm going to fish the upstream side (to establish my pattern) and if they're in an active mood they'll usually be upstream of any cover; if they're inactive, they'll usually be downstream in that eddy area."

On a creek, England would fish it just like a river. "Basically, I'll be fishing the same types of things. I'll go to a lighter line and smaller lures and a much more quiet approach," she states.

It's on man-made impoundments that England really starts talking about structure.

"I'd be looking more toward the shallow structure for the active bass - all visible structure, all visible cover on this structure, i.e., stumps along the edge of a creek channel. I'd fish them fast with a fast moving bait than can cover a lot of water, such as a crank bait or spinnerbait. I think during that pre-summer stage, structure fish are not really gathered up; they'll be more suspended, more scattered. And in the pre-summer, I'm going to concentrate more on shallow water structure and cover."

An innovative extension handle from OMC Parts and Accessories fits all late model Johnson and Evinrude tiller control electric positioning motors. It's made of aluminum with a nylon sleeve that locks over the tiller handle of the motor, staying secure, without screws or bolts. It adds 18 inches of reach to the handle.

Here's an amazing fact...did you know there was once a baseball player who hit a home run on his first at bat in the big leagues—they played for 20 years and never hit another homer!...Hoyt Wilhelm hit a home run his first time up in the majors in 1952, and then played in the big leagues for 20 more years and never hit another homer!

Has any big league baseball team ever been able to stay in first place EVERY DAY from opening day till the end of a season?...Oddly enough, only 3 teams in history have accomplished this...They were the 1923 Giants, the 1927 Yankees and the 1984 Tigers.

Ever wonder what's the longest hole-in-one anyone ever made in golf?...The record is held by a man named Robert Mitera, who on the 10th hole of the Miracle Hills Gold Course in Omaha, Neb., on Oct. 7, 1965, made a hole-in-one of 444 yards!

Winners of children's art contest include Bay St. Louis lad

NEW ORLEANS—The New Orleans Symphony has announced winners of its "second" annual Children's Art Contest.

Artwork submitted to the competition was based on the impressions of a Symphony Concert and included pencil and color works depicting the music and the orchestra.

Elias Loup, 5, of New Orleans; Oliver James Arce, 6, of Bay St. Louis; and Rebecca May Anderson, 7, of New Orleans were selected as the three winners.

The children, along with their parents, have been invited to meet Resident Conductor Alfred Savia for lunch Saturday, May 30 at the Jax Brewery's Brew House.

Prizes to be awarded are a conductor's baton and an autographed picture of Maestro Savia.

The contest was sponsored by the Symphony and Mervyn's Department Stores as part of the promotion for the "Discovery" concert series underwritten by Mervyn's, now in its second year in the New Orleans area.

The Saturday Morning Series, for both parents and children, is designed to introduce the families to the thrill of live music while also being visually entertaining. Audience members are invited up on stage following the concerts to meet the musicians and see the instruments.

Entries for the contest were turned in after the last concert of the series on April 25.

Also featured was a special appearance by the Palmetto Players, a mime troupe.

HONOR SOCIETY

HATTIESBURG—University of Southern Mississippi student Mary Ann Shippey of Waveland has been initiated into Gamma Beta Phi, a national honor society and service organization.

Initiates are selected on the basis of academic performance and service to the community.

Shippey, the daughter of James and Carol Shippey of Waveland, is a USM sophomore majoring in pre-law.

The Dean's List scholar is a 1985 graduate of Long Beach High School.

State graduates 12 with perfect averages

Kim Carpenter Reid, a May graduate in accountancy and daughter of Mrs. LaFoe Bilbo of Bay St. Louis and Ackerman, was among 12 Mississippi State University seniors honored at the conclusion of the spring semester for completing their studies during the past year with perfect 4.0 grade averages.

In addition to receiving bachelor's degrees designated summa cum laude—highest distinction—they were presented gold medallions by the campus chapter of Phi Kappa Phi national honor society as additional permanent symbols of their outstanding academic achievement. The campus chapter first awarded the medallions last year.

The 1987 medallions, which feature the university seal surrounded by a starburst effect, were presented May 15 during commencement exercises in Humphrey Coliseum.

Recipients represented the graduating classes of the 1986 summer and fall semesters and the 1987 spring semester. MSU only holds one commencement annually at the conclusion of the spring semester.

Phi Kappa Phi honor society is a national organization devoted to the encouragement and recognition of outstanding scholarship in all academic fields. Founded in 1897 at what is now Pennsylvania State University, the society has some 240 chapters.

NASA, USM seek students for annual Astro Camp

NASA's National Space Technology Laboratories, in partnership with University of Southern Mississippi, will present two sessions of Astro Camp for young people during the summer months.

The goal of the five-day educational camp is to provide a unique learning experience and to encourage interest in mathematics and science by demonstrating how these subjects are applied to aeronautics and space travel.

Individual sessions are planned for two age groups: nine to 11 years old, June 29 to July 3; and 12 to 14 years old, July 20-24.

Enrollment is limited to the first 40 applicants in each age group.

The camp sessions will be held at NSTL from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. daily. Activities will include a combination of hands-on training, field trips and lectures and demonstrations presented by expert lecturers from NASA.

Students will be given a tour of the NASA installation including the space shuttle test complex and the computer center. Field trips to NASA's Michoud assembly facility in New Orleans, La., and Stennis Airport in Hancock County will be scheduled.

Other activities include a model rocket class and model airplane contest, flight physicals and simulated space missions.

All students will receive a flight suit, hat, camp t-shirt, calculator, navigation map and a training manual as part of the enrollment fee.

There are three enrollment options from which participants may choose. The fee for day students who provide their own transportation to and from NSTL is $150, which also covers daily lunches and snacks. For students who wish bus transportation to NSTL from the USM-Gulf

Park campus in Long Beach, the fee is $180. Students can also attend the daily NSTL sessions and stay each night at the USM-Gulf Park conference center for a fee of $295 including all meals and accommodations.

Pre-registration and a $50 deposit are required and the deadline is two weeks before the opening of each session.

For further information, contact the USM Department of Lifelong Learning at (601)865-4508.

The first 40 applicants in each age group will be notified of their acceptance by mail.

Deckhand jobs available for trained personnel

Training for employment in the marine industry is available at the Louisiana Marine and Petroleum Institute in Houma, La.

Applications for enrollment in a new class are now being accepted. LaMPI has had more calls for trained personnel than are presently enrolled.

LaMPI Instructor Ed Portier said, "These companies are looking for people who can pass the company physical and have shown the ambition and initiative to obtain marine training. Physicals normally include a drug screen these days. These companies are crewing vessels and need deckhands and able seaman. We did not have enough trained people to send them. That is very unfortunate when so many people are unemployed and really need the work."

The institute is a state-operated vocational-technical school. LaMPI applicants must be 16 years of age to enroll for training, however most companies only will hire those over 18.

A high school diploma is not required but basic mathematic and reading ability is necessary for the training program and Coast Guard examinations.

Advanced training leading to a license as a deck or engineering specialist is also available. Each of these advanced programs total two years and includes on-the-job training while employed aboard vessels of various companies.

These programs are Coast Guard approved which results in shortening the time required to obtain a license as a mate, operator or engineer.

The 1,365 hours of training for these advanced programs and approximately one year of OJT is divided into phases with the trainee alternating between the school and OJT.

While on OJT the trainee earns the standard wage for the position he holds and completes assigned job tasks for his on-the-job training.

Persons desiring further information, should call 504/851-3322, 8-4, weekdays, or write to Louisiana Marine and Petroleum Institute, P.O. Box 5033, Houma, LA, 70361 and request an application for admission or additional information.
